

Not climate opinion

- This describes posts that do not relate to climate change.

climate activism

- Posts that urge people to help with climate change. This can include asking how individuals can help with climate change, or promoting projects centered around climate change or its effects.

climate anxiety

- A post that shows a fear of climate change, without necessarily being disheartened about beating it.

climate change importance

- Posts that express the importance of climate change. This might not directly equate to activism, as expressing importance does not necessarily equate to urging action.

Climate apathy

- The author of the post does not care about climate change.

Climate information

- An informational post about climate change. This could include quoting a news article without adding further opinions, or mentioning a natural disaster.

Climate nihilism

- This is the opinion that climate change is inevitable and irreversible. This surpasses climate anxiety, in that the author is hopeless in stopping climate change.

Climate denial

- The opinion that climate change does not exist.

Climate optimism

- A post expressing the idea that climate change is improving. This could also express hope that leaders or individuals can improve the climate.

climate policy critique

- This is a critique of political policy related to climate change specifically. This includes how policies (or lack of policies) are hurting the climate, or if politicians are hurting climate change in their direct actions or inactions.

Climate action critique

- A critique on climate change action as a whole. This could include a company's actions towards climate change, AI data centers, etc.

Climate denial critique

- A critique on those that deny climate change exists.

Climate nihilism critique

- A critique on those that have a nihilistic view towards climate change.

climate opinion critique

- A critique on other opinions that do not fit into the above topics.